

Introduction and Understanding the context

The CPD Toolkit will benefit all adult learning practitioners who have the need to remain current and at the cutting edge of their field of practice. The introduction describes and explains the use of this CPD Toolkit for Continuous Professional Development for Adult Learning Practitioners. Eight modules including comprehensive workbooks and professional CD lectures have been carefully crafted to represent the learning cycle across a range of adult learning contexts and at the level and complexity of professional education, training and development practice.

Then presented by Daryl McLean, a powerful session titled 'Understanding the context' assists adult learning practitioners better understand the system level and policy environment within which skills development exists. He reveals the histories, theories and debates surrounding the National Skills Development Strategy and the Qualifications Frameworks in South Africa. Once equipped with the conceptual underpinnings and language of the national qualifications framework (NQF), we explore future changes within skills development and the NQF.

'Introduction and understanding the context' is foundational to Continuous Professional Development for Adult Learning Practitioners.
